

Climate justice: Is it effective to go to court?

French-Swedish perspective

The French Embassy and the French Institute in Sweden, in collaboration with the Administrative Tribunal of Lyon and the Environmental Law and Policy Centre at Stockholm University, invite you to an online debate with Marc Clément, presiding judge at Administrative Tribunal of Lyon (France) and Jonas Ebbesson, Professor of Environmental Law and Director of Stockholm Environmental Law and Policy Centre, at Stockholm University.

They will discuss and compare the role of courts and climate change lawsuits in France and Sweden.

Jonas Ebbesson is the Chair and Marc Clément a member of the Compliance Committee of the UNECE Convention on Access to Information, Public Participation in Decision-making and Access to Justice in Environmental Matters (Aarhus Convention).

Moderator: Ellen Hey, Professor of Public International Law at Erasmus School of Law of Erasmus University Rotterdam, the Netherlands.

When: Thursday 8 April, 16:00

Where: ONLINE

Registration here

INSTITUT FRANÇAIS
SUÈDE

AMBASSADE
DE FRANCE
EN SUÈDE
*Liberté
Égalité
Fraternité*

TRIBUNAL ADMINISTRATIF
DE LYON

Stockholm Environmental
Law and Policy Centre

Stockholm
University

To know more about our speakers and moderator:

French: <https://institutfrancais-suede.com/debat-justice-climatique/>

Swedish: <https://institutfrancais-suede.com/debatt-klimatrattvisa/?lang=sv>